DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. Acknowledgement is made of the Information Disclosure Statement filed October 22, 2003, which has been made record of and placed in the file.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 2, 3, 4 and 5/1 are objected to because of the following informalities:
Claims 2 and 5/1 disclose "the peaks", however, "the peaks" are not mentioned in claim 1.
1. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which and subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moriuchi et al (4,699,617).

Regarding claim 1, Moriuchi et al teaches a floating-probe flow meter for measuring the flow rate of a moving medium (fig. 2), with a measuring tube (11) through which flows a medium against the force of gravity, and measuring tube containing a float (14) capable of moving at least in the direction of the flow. Moriuchi et al fails to teach at least the surface of the float that is exposed to the flow of the medium is provided with a microstructure and/or that the inner surface of the measuring tube at least in the area of movement of the float is provided with a microstructure. Moriuchi et al does teach in col. 2, lines 61-67 that the float has a spherical shape and has a specific gravity larger than that of the fluid. Float (14) is set such that the flow rate is defined by the difference in diameter of float (14) and portion (11a). Examples of the material for float (14) include glass, ruby, stainless steel, plastic or carbon. These materials have different specific gravities. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made to have used the any of the material stated in Moriuchi et al as the surface of the float of Moriuchi et al for the purpose of allowing the float to be stably positioned at a prescribed position at a predetermined flow rate (col. 2, lines 67-68-col. 3, line 1), since a microstructure is merely a structure of an organism or object as revealed through microscopic examination, any of the aforementioned materials can be revealed through a microscope and used as a surface of the float.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
